

Welcome to Our Community!

Contributed by June Kaminski
Sunday, 28 December 2008
Last Updated Sunday, 17 May 2009

WELCOME TO OUR COMMUNITY!

This community section of the First Nations Pedagogy for Online Learning site has been created to provide a secure community area where everyone interested in First Nations and aboriginal learning can share questions, insights, practices, ideas, and resources. This section augments the Learning Center (created in Moodle) and the Circle Dialogue Blog. A key component of this site is the encouragement of interaction. That is why we are offering these various sections - to invite you to join in, whether you are a student, a teacher, a curriculum designer, an educational leader, an elder, or an interested party. All are welcome!

To join this community, you need to register for an account. Once registered, you will have access to the content, and be able to contribute to it as well. You will also be able to access the community forums and other protected work areas within the community.